- Independent of my academic approval for this mobility program, all travel approval is provided through Monash Abroad under the Monash student travel policy.
- If I am required by Monash Abroad to submit a detailed travel plan for review and approval by Monash Security I understand this is a further pre requisite to my travel approval. This may also require an individual interview with Monash security staff to assess my capacity for travel in this program and subsequent approval or otherwise.

University representation and conduct

- In undertaking this mobility program I represent the University internationally, with my conduct remaining subject to Monash statues and regulations (Chapter 4 – student discipline http://monash.edu/legal/legislation/chapter-four.html). A hardcopy of this document is available for my review via the Monash Abroad office.
- Throughout this international program I am subject to laws and customs of the local land and regulations and policy of any partner University or host organisation forming a part of my program.

• This insurance policy includes unlimited medical coverage and covers baggage and personal items. The policy also extends to cover personal travel which takes place immediately prior to and after an overseas program.
• The University also provides access for students to a 24-hour medical and emergency service provider.
• Monash University is confident that the student insurance policy will cover the majority of students, however some personal and unique circumstances may exclude certain students from cover. As a result all students must review the policy’s exclusion criteria and provide any personal information required in order to activate the policy.

Postgraduate Student Travel Insurance

• Postgraduate students can arrange insurance cover under the Monash University Business Travel Insurance Policy but will need to have this administered by an authorised Monash staff member from the faculty. Further information for this policy can be found at:
Government Travel Advice
The Australian Government (along with many others) issues security and safety information to help travellers decide whether it is safe to visit international locations.

- Students are advised to regularly check the travel advisories for the country they are travelling to which are issued for Australian citizens by the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT): www.smartraveller.gov.au.
- Students are advised to register with the Australian Embassy or High Commission in the intended travel destination(s). this can be done on-line at: https://www.orao.dfat.gov.au/orao/weborao.nsf/homepage?Openpage.
- If DFAT issues a level 3 “reconsider your need to travel” advisory for an International Study Program location, the Deputy Vice-Chancellor Global Engagement (or delegate) will decide whether it is safe for students to travel to or remain in that country. Such programs may be cancelled and arrangements can be made for students to depart the country immediately (at expense of the student).
- If DFAT issues a level 4 “do not travel” advisory for an International Study Program location, the University’s approval for the relevant program will be cancelled and arrangements can be made for students to depart the country immediately (at their own expense). Monash Security, the Monash Abroad office and other Monash student support services (e.g. Health and wellbeing) can help you make the necessary arrangements but you should review your travel insurance policy to confirm which costs will be covered.
- Non-Australian citizens should consult the websites of their home country foreign affair departments to check for warnings specific to their nationals and register, if possible. The US State Department site can also be consulted for travel warnings: http://www.travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/tw/tw_1764.html

If the University cancels an International Study Program before it commences, on the basis of DFAT travel advice, students may be required to refund the Monash Abroad scholarship.

Visas
Visas are official permits that authorise entry to a specific country for a stated purpose and time. In order to enter some foreign countries, students may be required to obtain a visa from the relevant embassy or consulate before departing Australia. Be sure to check this with the relevant embassy or consulate in Australia well in advance. It can take up to 4 weeks to obtain an Australian passport so apply early. Seeking advice on the relevant visa and application for the visa to enable your overseas program is the responsibility of the student. Monash Abroad is unable to provide specific or individual visa advice. Monash Abroad can provide and obtain the relevant university documentation for you that may be required to support your visa application when the visa application relates specifically to your overseas study program.

International Students
International students may participate in Monash University International Study Programs, subject to the conditions of their visa requirements. International students are advised to make an appointment with DIAC at least 28 days in advance of departure, to enquire as to what visa requirements and responsibilities become effective when studying outside Australia.

On request by a student, Monash Abroad can supply a letter confirming that student's enrolment in a Monash University International Study Program. Such a letter may be requested by DIAC staff or customs officers when travelling.

International students are responsible for ensuring they understand and comply with all relevant immigration requirements. Monash will not be responsible for providing advice or information regarding visa regulations or responsibilities of international students, nor any related student breaches. More information can be sourced through the Australian Department of Immigration and Citizenship website: www.immi.gov.au

Health

Before departure, students should contact their preferred private medical practitioner or the University Health Service on campus for advice about what immunizations are recommended for the foreign countries included in their International Study Program. Students should make an appointment for a medical consultation at least three months before departure from Australia.

Students with specific medical needs should check with their doctor (or the University Health Service) whether relevant treatment or medication is available in the intended region(s) of travel. Travel insurance will not normally cover pre-existing medical conditions.

Students travelling to rural and/or underdeveloped areas should be aware of personal health risks such as susceptibility to infection, or medications that should be avoided. It is also advisable to have a dental check-up before departure and where relevant; to bring spare eyeglasses, contact lenses and a copy of your prescription. We also recommend that students pack a personal first aid kit (Suggested items are bandages, disinfectant, oral thermometer, painkillers, sunscreen, insect repellent, water purification tablets and/or medications for asthma, diarrhoea, allergies and nasal congestion).

Students with a chronic medical problem such as diabetes, must ensure to take a health record that includes a medical history and contact details for their local doctor. Students are advised to bring an adequate supply of medications and a list of their medications’ generic names in case a prescription is required overseas. It is strongly recommended that students inform their Faculty Program Coordinator and Monash Abroad of any existing health problems. In an emergency situation it is crucial that this information is available.

Other personal responsibilities

- Whilst studying abroad, students are considered to be representatives of Monash University. As such, student behaviour, accomplishments and performance will reflect not only on students personally, but on Monash as well. What students do may positively or negatively affect future Monash Abroad programs.
- Students must read carefully all the materials issued in relation to their International Study Program; especially those items that relate to safety, health, legal, environmental, political, cultural and religious conditions in host countries.
- Students need to be aware of local conditions and customs that may present health or safety risks during their International Study Program. Students are advised to promptly raise any health or safety concerns with the relevant Monash staff member or representative.
- Students are expected to behave in a manner that is respectful of the rights and wellbeing of others and encourage others to behave in a similar manner.
- With the help of Faculty Program Coordinators and Monash Abroad, students need to take time to become familiar with the procedures for obtaining emergency health and law enforcement services in the host country.

Safety & security

We all wish for and expect our students to return safely and in good health from their experiences abroad. Whilst no level of preparation can prevent all problems, taking proper precautions will help avert a number of potentially troubling and dangerous situations.

Monash University policy and procedures stipulates that, “All students undertaking international travel must have comprehensive travel insurance. It is therefore a condition of participation in any International Study Program that students arrange adequate comprehensive insurance for the period of the program.
Students are advised to:

- Check whether your Australian mobile phone will work in the countries you will be visiting. If it will, make sure you have global roaming enabled so that you can make and receive calls overseas.

- If you intend to be on your own during a period of free time, make sure the on-site program coordinator at your host institution, or other member(s) of the group know where you are going and when you expect to return.

- Take several copies of your passport, airlines ticket and insurance documents. You should also leave copies of these documents at home with a parent or guardian.

- Keep a note of banking details and the phone number(s) required to manage these accounts. In the event of a robbery or the loss of your wallet, these details will be invaluable.

- Report any theft/loss to the police and your travel insurer. Passport losses must be also be reported to your nearest embassy or consulate.

- Make a note of emergency telephone numbers in the region(s) you intend to visit, (eg. police, fire, ambulance, your consulate or embassy).

- Avoid leaving bags or belongings unattended at any time. Do not agree to carry or look after packages or suitcases for anyone. Make sure no-one puts anything in your luggage.

- Be aware of others gaining access to your bag/backpack, particularly when on crowded public transport. Be sure to close bags and carry them in front of you. Never carry your wallet or purse in your back pocket. Pickpockets tend to operate in large crowds and particularly around tourist areas.

- Be discreet about any displays of wealth, do not count or show your money in public and be mindful of any watches and jewellery you take overseas. Be cautious when using automatic teller machines. Ask for local advice about where it is safe to go and where it is not.

- Be cooperative if someone threatens you with force. Don't fight or resist, as you risk personal injury. Report the incident to police immediately.

- Avoid Hitchhiking.

- Avoid participating in any political activities in the countries you visit. Avoid angry groups or demonstrations. If you come across any situation that seems potentially hazardous, leave the area immediately and warn others in the International Study Program.

- Be respectful of the dress code of your host country, you may need to alter your dress to accommodate local custom, especially in places of worship.

- Be cautious when you meet new people, do not assume that their intentions are honest. Be careful about disclosing personal details such as your address or phone number, information about other students or the International Study Program activities.

- Be aware that driving customs and pedestrian safety vary from country to country. Road accidents pose a great threat to your safety whilst travelling, so exercise caution.

Emergencies

Emergencies that can arise whilst travelling include: illness, accidents, natural disasters, political instability and terrorism. It is essential that all students on an International Study Program be prepared for dealing with emergency situations.
Students are encouraged to develop an emergency response plan before leaving Australia. The following list will assist students in developing a plan, for use in the event of a threatening or critical situation.

Pre-emptive Actions
- Register with the Australian embassy in your host country to advise them of your travel itinerary and contact details. This can be done online at www.smartraveller.gov.au. Non-Australian citizens should register with the Embassy or diplomatic representative of their home county within the country where your program is taking place.
- Maintain contact with Monash through Monash Abroad and/or your Faculty Program Coordinator.
- Maintain contact with your family at home, advising them of your contact details and plans.
- Monitor your Monash email regularly as Monash Abroad will deliver any advice to this email account.

Actions in an Emergency Situation
- Evaluate your options - is it better to stay put or move to another location? In some circumstances it may be safest to return to Australia as soon as possible.
- Make sure you know the emergency telephone number(s) for the country you are in.
- Make sure you know the location of the nearest doctor and hospital.
- Seek the advice of your Faculty Program Coordinator, the on-site coordinator at your host institution, the Embassy in your host country and Monash Abroad.
- Communicate your movements and any changed plans to your family, Faculty Program Coordinator Monash Abroad and Monash security staff.

Monash University Support
- Whilst Monash students are responsible for their own safety overseas, the Monash Abroad office, via the expertise and assistance of the Monash security office does monitor international developments which may affect the safety and welfare of Monash students overseas and will endeavour to advise students of any relevant information.
- In the event of a large-scale emergency such as a terrorist incident or natural disaster in a country where Monash students are currently participating in a Monash program, or planning to do so, the Monash security office will ensure that all students are contacted and will provide advice about what action(s) students should take.
- Monash advises that at all times students should follow Australian DFAT travel advice and/or advice issued by local diplomatic representatives.
- If DFAT issues advice that deems a country unsafe for travel (ie. “Level 4 – Do Not travel”), Monash University may cancel the International Study Program and the participation of any student who is currently undertaking a Monash program in that country (or is planning to do so). In such an event, the University expects students to depart the country immediately, under the guidance of the Monash security office and Monash Abroad.
- In an emergency, the Monash security office and/or Monash Abroad Office can assist students in establishing embassy contact, maintaining contact with host university networks, communication with family and coordinating travel arrangements.

Embassies and Consulates of Non-Australian Citizens
Most countries offer international safety and emergency services to their citizens. If you are a Non-Australian citizen you should ascertain the level of representation and assistance that may be available to you during your International Study Program. Monash Abroad is unable to provide visa advice as this is the role of Consular services. However Monash Abroad is able to arrange for letters of support or other relevant University documentation to support your visa application when the visa application relates strictly to the purpose required for your overseas study program.

International Student Identity Card (ISIC)
The ISIC is a card for full time students abroad, that can verify your student status and may qualify holders for discounts on travel, tours, accommodation and cultural attractions. Applications for ISIC cards are available through STA Travel (www.statravel.com.au). For worldwide information on the ISIC and discounts/benefits available around the world go to www.isic.org.

Sexuality - Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual & Transgender Issues
Attitudes towards same-sex and non-traditional relationships differ considerably between particular countries or regions. If this is relevant, students may want to research the attitudes in regions relevant to the International Study Program.

Women travelling alone
The perception of gender within society differs significantly between cultures around the world. Not all countries share the same concept of gender-equality and students should be prepared for varying opinions and customs in this regard. Students are advised to try to understand the culture in which they are travelling. Observe how the host country's women dress and behave, also be aware that what may be appropriate or friendly behaviour in Australia may bring unwanted or dangerous attention in another culture.
